Northern Arizona is the setting for this 3 day and 2 night trip that has us lodging at the historical La Posada Hotel in Winslow, Arizona. We begin our first day by traveling to Winslow via Payson, Strawberry and Pine. This afternoon we visit Homolovi Ruins State Park. This park serves as a center of research for the late migration period of the Hopi from the 1200s to the late 1300s. "Homolovi" is Hopi for "Place of the Little Hills" and it is interesting to discover this sacred place. We then check into the La Posada Hotel for a wonderful 2 night stay. This charming, old hotel was designed by Mary Elizabeth Jane Colter, chief architect and designer for the Fred Harvey Company. This commission was considered her masterpiece. The influence of Spain and Mexico is obvious and this is a wonderful opportunity to lodge at a unique property – every room is different! Both dinners and breakfasts will be enjoyed in their dining room – The Turquoise Room. Day 2 we travel to Hubbell Trading Post. John Lorenzo Hubbell bought the trading post in 1878 and began doing business with the Navajo Indians. This National Historic Site is a must for any person interested in native arts, especially Navajo rugs. We have arranged a "rug talk" to learn more about the art of weaving. After a picnic lunch we head to Keams Canyon Trading Post to see Hopi arts and crafts. Afternoon finds us touring historic Walpi Village on First Mesa. This Hopi village has been continuously inhabited for more than 1100 years.

This walking tour takes us through a living village and it has no electricity or running water and you will witness life as it has been lived over the centuries. Our third day finds us traveling to the Petrified Forest National Park. Marvel at the multi-hued badlands of the Painted Desert and the world's largest and most colorful concentration of Petrified wood.
